They also s Next was the “Games Gully” where students and parents participated in exciting games discreetly planned to mature children’s gross and fine motor skills. At the “Fun Zone” the attendees eagerly extended their hands at the Tattoo Corner for their favourite sea animal tattoo; beamingly smiled at the camera posing as pirates at the Fun Photo Booth; and picked up their desired frog puppets and piggy banks innovatively designed by the students themselves using recycled materials. The exhibition also comprised of a Money Counter where the little Goenkans collected their envelopes with the artificial Goenkan currency for use at the different zones, to give them an experience of money handling.
